

Villa Olivo

Wheelchair accessible holiday villa in Javea, Spain

When is the best time to take a holiday at Villa Olivo, Javea?

The climate in Javea is one of the healthiest in the world¹. While the summer months of July and August are always very popular, they are also fiercely hot. For sun worshippers and families, these are brilliant months to get away. But with 300 days of sunshine a year, you are typically assured of having great weather at any time of the year when in Javea.

May, June and September, while not quite as hot as July and August are warm and blessed with warm sun-filled days. March, April and October offer a great opportunity to enjoy the healthier, warmer climate. The winter months of November, December and January are still much warmer and offer more daylight hours than back in the UK.

Winter time in Javea offers a great escape from the long, dark British days. There are so many places to explore around this beautiful Spanish coastal town.

There is so much to see and do in and around the area, anytime of year is a good time come, it is a matter of what you are looking for with your holiday.
